

Rudolph M. Bell is Distinguished Professor in the Department of History at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey. His research interests include all aspects of Italian history with particular attention to religion, gender, popular culture, mysticism, and the history of the book. He is the author of The Voices of Gemma Galgani: The Life and Afterlife of a Modern Saint, with Cristina Mazzoni (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2003), How to Do It: Guides to Good Living for Renaissance Italians (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1999), and Holy Anorexia (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1985).

Session Chair: Contested Narratives and Nation-Building